**REP. TOM EMMER:

** Hi, I'm Congressman Tom Emmer. Today is Veterans Day. While no day should pass without remembering those who serve and those who have served, that's especially true this day. Our country has a rich history, a history that includes struggle, conflict, and war fought by brave individuals who chose to defend America in spite of the risks. Nothing else that our nation has produced, the literature, the inventions, the exploration, the charity, would not be possible without the sacrifice of these brave men and women. These individuals across the country chose to dedicate their lives to serve the United States of America, and we owe them so much more than we could ever repay. The men and women of our armed forces are truly the best that this country has to offer. Whether serving at home or abroad, in times of war or in times of peace, these Americans support the core values of honor, courage, and commitment in an unwavering manner. Those of you who have served, thank you for all you have done for our country. Thank you for all you have done for our freedoms and liberties. And thank you for what you have done for the generations yet to come. And to your families, we are grateful for your sacrifice and dedication to our country. Please remember to thank a veteran today. Thank you. *Note: This transcript contains only Rep. Tom Emmer speaking and does not include any host/interviewer dialogue, suggesting this may be a prepared statement or PSA rather than an interview format.*
