HOST SCOTT:

Thank You Scott

REP. TOM EMMER:

At this moment the House Financial Services Committee is starting its hearing with Securities and Exchange Commission Chairman Gary Gensler in an era where bipartisanship can feel scarce Gensler has done such a terrible job running the SEC that he has managed to unite members on both sides of the aisle condemning his failed leadership Gary Gensler has worked to consolidate his own power even though it means crushing Opportunities and frankly the financial future of this country Rogue bureaucrats like Gensler are supposed to be working for the people not reigning over them He has wasted a large part of the SEC's resources to wage war on the crypto industry The strategy however has not been successful for him as the SEC Continues to lose again and again in the courts on its crusade against the digital asset innovation in this country It's time for the SEC to return to its mission and protect opportunities for every American who wants to participate in the greatest capital markets in the world Digital asset innovation is an important part of that What Gary Gensler doesn't understand is fighting against crypto innovation in America isn't going to stop it He is only gonna push crypto innovation off of American soil This is exactly how disasters like FTX occur the United States should want digital asset businesses under its regulatory umbrella and Purview so that we have a safer digital asset ecosystem Many people are concerned that Kamala Harris would actually appoint Elizabeth Warren organic Gary Gensler to be her Treasury secretary, which would only make matters worse Their mission to upend free markets innovation and global competitiveness would destroy our financial system We can't let that happen America is ready for pro for the pro crypto president And there's only one candidate who has promised to fire Gary Gensler on day one I look forward to participating in this committee hearing after I leave here into holding chairman Gensler's feet to the fire For the war that he has waged against our financial system. I turn it over to our majority
