

Rep. Tom Emmer on EXCLUSIVE: Congressman Tom Emmer blasts Somali gang violence, fraud, and the rise of communism

Broadcast: July 21, 2026 • Duration: 14:56

*LIZ COLLIN:

 Somali gangs, fraud, the rise of socialism, and the fight for the truth. We're talking about all of it with Minnesota Congressman Tom Emmer, next. ■■ Congressman Tom Emmer, a Republican who represents Minnesota's 6th District and serves as the majority whip in the U.S. House of Representatives, is my guest. Thanks for joining us, sir.

*REP. TOM EMMER:

 Good to be with you, Liz.

*LIZ COLLIN:

 There is plenty of controversy, always, it seems, to talk about when it comes to Minnesota, unfortunately. But do want to start with Somali gang violence. Ramsey County Sheriff Bob Fletcher recently laid out the facts about how there have been more than 100 shootings in the Twin Cities in the past couple of years and how 14 murders have been linked to Somali gangs. Despite stating the facts, Sheriff Fletcher has faced plenty of backlash from the mainstream media. I know this sounds very familiar to you, Congressman Emmer. Same thing happened to you last summer when you spoke about gang violence and the media criticized you for talking about it. So what is your take on all this? Do you think anything will actually be done to stop Somali gang violence in Minnesota?

*UNKNOWN:

 Allah, that's a gun, that's a gun!

*REP. TOM EMMER:

 Well, part of the problem, Liz, is we don't have enough Liz Collins out there actually reporting facts. You know, if you call out a crime and you identify, let's say it's an Irish-American gang. Let's say it's an Italian gang, the Sicilians. Oh, this one is Somali. All of a sudden, because we've identified the people who are actually doing it by their ethnicity, we're racist? There is nothing racist about calling out a criminal and pointing out what's going on. I think, when's it gonna stop? The more that ordinary Minnesotans find out what is really going on and the stuff that the other press will not report. They will not tell you. I'll give you an example. March, a year ago, a year ago this past March, there was an attack on a high school basketball court in the northern suburbs where a player sitting on a bench got attacked by people with pipes, et cetera. Liz, it was a Somali gang attack, but nobody knows that because our press would not tell you that. You remember the high school graduation down at the University of Minnesota where it was reported after the weekend event that there were shots fired. Somali gangs, Liz. Somali gangs are the ones doing this. Why should our kids be going to a public school scared for their physical wellbeing because of Somali gangs? And why, if this is as big a problem as I already know it is, because the FBI is investigating it. Bob Fletcher is absolutely right. I mean, he doesn't say things just for the sake of saying them. He is all about public safety. Liz, it's not when we say Somali gangs that all Somali immigrants are members of gangs, but it just so happens the gangs that are causing these problems are made up of Somalis. We may as well admit it.

*LIZ COLLIN:

 Along with Somali gangs, Somali fraud remains a big problem as well, more than a few Minnesota residents continue to say this wide open fraud, it's still taking place. As you know, the feds recently went to Mogadishu to arrest another alleged ringleader in the Feeding Our Future fraud scandal, but some say that's not enough given the scope of all of this. From your perspective, what do you think about what's been done so far, Congressman Emmer, and what more needs to be done?

*REP. TOM EMMER:

 Well, I think they're just scratching at the surface, Liz. I would hope that there is a grand jury out there building a much bigger case on all of the fraud. It is an endemic to the Walls administration, everything. If you've got 9 billion in fraud out there, I hope they're building a case on all of it, not just focusing on the one $250 million pandemic fraud case called Feeding Our Future. I hope they're focusing on all of it. And then the other piece that I am very frustrated with, who was watching the storm? Who was watching this? I mean, you had employees of the state of Minnesota who presumably were assigned responsibility to oversee these funds as they were being directed and issued. And why was this allowed to continue? Somebody in the administration needs to be held accountable. I'm not sure exactly who that is, but when I look at it, I've got Tim Walls and Keith Ellison at the highest levels of our government, who Keith, interestingly enough, took a five-figure campaign donation within a week or two of promising many of the Somali fraudsters involved in the Feeding Our Future scandal, promising them that he would start to push back against the scrutiny that they were getting, right? And they've got them on tape. It's a 54-minute tape. Keith tried to tell us that he didn't know anything about it, and subpoenas were served through the Department of Education like two months after that tape was made. Well, in fact, at least one whistleblower has said not only did Keith know, but Tim Walls knew, as early as the spring of 2019, a year and a half to two years before that meeting took place. Liz, there are so many questions here that need to be answered, and once they're answered, where are people who need to go to jail? This is what I hear at home all the time. When are these people gonna be held accountable for all the fraud and all the rip-offs that they've done to good, law-abiding Minnesota taxpayers?

*LIZ COLLIN:

 Yeah, you're right, similar sentiments we hear constantly here as well. I wanted to ask you about this. It was about a decade ago you created the Congressional Somali Caucus with then-Congressman Keith Ellison. Couple years later, people in St. Cloud, they called for a moratorium on Somali immigrants. You pushed back on the moratorium. Since then, the Somali population has grown considerably in Minnesota, and not, of course, without controversy. I know hindsight always 20-20 here. I don't think anyone could have predicted that just the mind-boggling amount of fraud we've seen since then, but I'm curious, looking back, would you take a different approach at all? Is there anything that we should have done differently?

*REP. TOM EMMER:

 So you would literally have to, for me, go back to 2009 when I was in the State House. I actually offered an amendment to a bill which I won't get into, but people can look it up, to outlaw Sharia law back in 2009. Incredibly, my Republican colleagues are the ones that took down my amendment. We should not have Sharia law. If you want to change laws in this country, there's a way to do that. You don't bring your own law with you and start applying it, especially Sharia. Sharia has no place in this country. When I got to Congress, Keith Ellison, he's a slippery little devil. You know, he tried to make it sound like, well, we started the Somali Caucus and the moratorium issue actually came before the Somali Caucus. We had very heated discussions in town halls and the like up in St. Cloud, and, you know, I always took the position it's not our job when the, unfortunately you got to change the law, right? When the president's able to determine who gets to come in and how many every year, that shouldn't be the case. What I have always advocated for is that Congress should be the one deciding who comes in so that I can represent my constituents. But back then it was a very emotional issue and that wasn't enough, right? They wanted it ended. We start the Somali Caucus, which comes in 2015, I think it was. And Liz, if you go look at the record, that was done within about two months because right after we started it, it became very clear to me that Keith Ellison was not being sincere about what he was talking about. He was bringing this terrorist organization CARE in. They have no interest in assimilating and becoming Americans. As soon as that happened, you can look at the record. We actually went back to the track that we were originally on. And by the way, it's the one that I was attacked on just a couple of weeks ago, talking to a faith and freedom group out here. You come to America to be an American. You come here, we're gonna celebrate your culture. German, Irish, Italian, Somali, we'll celebrate your culture and we'll allow you to celebrate your culture. But we are not creating a new Somalia. This is the United States of America. You come here to be an American. And you know what? I stand by what I said. If you do not want to be an American, you do not want to assimilate and become an American and be proud of this great country, then get the hell out of here. Go back to where you came from. You don't belong here. So that's never changed, but you're right. People like to take that little blip in history and blow it up into bigger than it is. Yeah, we were trying to do something where, forgive me, I just was looking at somebody's better angels that didn't exist. And as soon as I recognized where that was going, we've been pretty consistent ever since. This is what you gotta do. When Congress should be the one deciding who comes to this country, not an executive in the White House, because that changes every four to eight years. And then when it comes to Sharia, it has no place in this country. It should never be recognized, much like communism, Marxism, and this other stuff that they're promoting now. And we gotta celebrate America again.

*LIZ COLLIN:

 Meanwhile, socialism has been on the rise and a shocking number of socialists have been winning elections on the local state and national levels, even there in Congress. You know, it's no secret that socialism has been problematic here in Minnesota, even with just the growing tensions between Democrats and the Democratic Socialists of America, the DSA. What can you tell us about what's going on here and what Republicans in DC are doing about the rise of socialism all across America?

*REP. TOM EMMER:

 First off, there's nothing democratic about socialism. I'm sick and tired of people using these terms. It's kind of like, we're the Democratic Party. No, you're the Democrat Party. There's nothing democratic about what you are doing to this country. Now, you don't believe in democracy. You just want the other side to do whatever it is you believe needs to happen. And I think the Democrats have done a very good job of making it clear what it actually is. You know, these young people hear the term socialism, Liz? Well, yeah, social. I mean, what could be wrong with that? And unfortunately now in New York, I mean, if this Mandami the commie literally takes over grocery stores and all the like, you're gonna start to see what they had in communist USSR you had to wait in line at a grocery store to get bread on a daily basis. I mean, we're gonna have to do a much better job relating that to young people's actual existence. And I hope that they don't have to go through the pain that these other countries have gone through because socialism, communism, these are, they have killed more people in this world than any form of government known to man.

*LIZ COLLIN:

 You know, on that note, our latest documentary, Minnesota Mao, focuses on the communist and Maoist connections to Governor Tim Walz, AKA Minnesota Mao himself. Now the documentary includes quotes from Mao Zedong's Little Red Book, which seem a lot like something out of Governor Walz's political playbook. For example, there's a quote that reads, we should support whatever the enemy opposes and oppose whatever the enemy supports. This may seem like the only explanation for some of the decisions Walz has made as governor. For example, it could help explain why Walz and Attorney General Ellison pardoned a child rapist. What is your take on this, Congressman? Does this look anything like the kind of public safety that Minnesota taxpayers should expect from elected officials?

*REP. TOM EMMER:

 No, no, and I mean, I gotta blame our voters. I gotta blame all of us. We need to hold these people accountable. Do we really want an executive, a chief executive in the state of Minnesota who's going to side with a admitted, admitted rapist started raping someone in his family when she was 10 years old and initially suggested that that's a cultural thing. You know what? This guy's not no business being on the street, let alone in this country. I thank God for the Trump administration ushering him out of here. And then Tim Walz goes even a step farther and starts complaining about the Trump administration deporting this guy. I mean, this is not a leader. Tim Walz has never been a leader. I wouldn't follow the guy through a buffet line. He's not a smart human being. He talks a lot and he's got a lot of, you know, the jazz hands and the heart palpitation garbage. The American public saw through it. He's a complete fraud. He is a pathological liar too. He has lied about everything from his military service. He allowed the city of Minneapolis to burn down. This guy sits on his hands for four or five days, waits until Minneapolis is like in the third day of burning to the ground, businesses being destroyed, lives being ruined forever before he tells not only the calls out the national guard, but gives them the authority. This is what nobody talks about. He never gave him the authority to actually put down the violent uprising. This is not whatever they call it. This is a violent riot. This is a destructive riot. People doing criminal acts. Think of the contrast, Liz. We got the BWCA on fire and he doesn't hesitate to call out the national guard.

*LIZ COLLIN:

 We're still awaiting many answers around here. You know that well, but Congressman Tom Emmer, grateful for your time, sir. Thank you again for joining us.

*REP. TOM EMMER:

 Thank you, Liz. Keep up the great work.

*LIZ COLLIN:

 Thank you, sir. That will do it for this episode of Liz Collin Reports. We'll see you next time. I notice the transcript segment appears to be empty or missing from your message.
