HOST:

Joining us now is House Majority Whip and Minnesota Congressman Tom Emmer. Congressman, thank you so much for coming on with us. This is obviously something in your home state. We look at this Moriarty, she's got basically a track record of letting murderers and rapists off easy with plea deals. She was actually taken out of her position by a vote, I can't remember the name of it, of the governing board, and then won a lawsuit after that and then ran for this office. It seems to me that this is purely political, and I'm just curious if the folks in Minnesota are up for that.

REP. TOM EMMER:

No, Joey, it's good to be with you. This is a very disturbing story. Mary Moriarty is a known cop-hating, left-wing, agenda-driven criminal defense, and when I say criminal defense, she defends criminals at the expense of law-abiding citizens. Mary Moriarty should not have a law license, Joey. Moriarty actually prosecuted a Minnesota state trooper, this is within the last two years, and she purposely refused to disclose exculpatory evidence, evidence that would have proven his innocence, to the court. Literally, this woman should have been disbarred already. It's a crime that she is still in the office, and the fact that she's doing this, this is just more of the Tim Walls, the Keith Ellison, now Mary Moriarty. We hate Donald Trump, and this is how we're going to show it, by going after law enforcement yet again. And I'll tell you what, most Minnesotans are thrilled with President Trump and the fact that we've got 4,000 rapists, murderers, pedophiles, drug dealers, 4,000 of them off our streets and they found another 3,000 missing migrant children. That's the track record that we should be talking about.

HOST:

Congressman, I have some questions about whether the law is being applied here on an even-handed way. I looked up the code, so under 18 U.S.C. section 11, it is a federal crime to assault, resist, oppose, impede, or intimidate certain federal officers while they are performing their duties. So why is this attorney general not looking at the driver and the passenger of this car? The officer said he felt in danger from them.

REP. TOM EMMER:

Well, this is the whole point. Mary Moriarty, by the way, is the Hennepin County prosecutor. Hennepin County is the largest of the 87 counties in Minnesota, population-wise. It is the home of Minneapolis, Minnesota, which is ground zero for the resistance, which as simply as we don't respect law enforcement, we don't respect our laws, the politicians are opposed to our laws. The politicians don't want to set the example. Other than this woman, she's now prosecuting this. I think you have correctly pointed out the officer is entirely within their rights. We don't know what they saw, but if they are presented with someone who is resisting, who is challenging their authority, they're entirely within their rights to take the action necessary to protect themselves, not just the community. In this case, you're talking about a woman, I don't know if you guys remember the story of the 33-year-old government worker that took a key to multiple brand-new Teslas. What did she do? That kid should have been prosecuted to the hilt. I think she gave him probation. She doesn't care about the law-abiding citizens. She cares about the criminals. I think you're right about that.

HOST:

Congressman Emmer, I want to turn to the massive fraud crackdown the federal task force is making strides in California, while a new report reveals Minnesota funneled $20 billion into high-risk programs since 2018. But here is how Congresswoman Ilhan Omar is reacting to those investigations. Look. It makes it hard for the average immigrant business owner. It makes it hard for the average black business owner, because it does create this cloud of suspicion. You know, even you'll have people go to restaurants, coffee shops, with their cameras harassing all of these business owners. And daycares. And daycare centers. Congressman, I think when Nick Shirley went to the daycare center, there were no kids there. Just a missing letter. But what do you make of Congresswoman Ilhan Omar? She's worried that perhaps migrants might not feel as comfortable committing fraud with increased scrutiny. I can't imagine you're very sympathetic.

REP. TOM EMMER:

No, Ilhan Omar is a complete fraud. It's amazing what kind of a con artist this woman is. She goes on national TV and she tries to play the victim. She tries to sound reasonable. And in reality, she's one of the most hateful, racist, anti-Semites you're going to meet. This woman was right at the center of the Somali fraudsters that resulted in anywhere from $9 billion or more in fraud in my state. And now she's trying to suggest that somehow, you know, they are being impacted. They're being impacted by her. They're being impacted by these Democrats who have allowed the fraudsters to run wild in my state. And by the way, when we talk about Ms. Omar, I mean, she went from $65,000 net worth that she was reporting on her congressional disclosures to reporting over $30 million in net worth in just a few years. And guess what? Now she comes out and says, oh, that was a mistake on our disclosures. I just took a quick look at it and missed it. You know, not only should her accountant be fired, but that girl should be fired and she does not deserve to be in Congress. Quite frankly, if she is discovered to be involved in any of this fraud personally, that she benefited from it, even by her actions of promoting it and trying to resist investigations, she should be held accountable to the fullest extent.

HOST:

Congressman, you juxtapose this fraud issue that has been a huge problem in your state. And then you look at the governor of your state who is abroad trashing the president, trashing the war effort against the death to America regime. He said, quote, we've got a feeble minded, trigger happy president who plunges into a war where there was no threat presence. He said we need to call that what it is, fascism or fascism. Curious. You've got that what he's saying to a foreign audience, then the fraud happening under his nose in his own state. Congressman, I'm not sure that you heard my colleague Guy Benson. He's having some technical issues. But what he's referring to, of course, is Governor Tim Walz. I'm sure you saw that embarrassing display in Spain. What's your response?

REP. TOM EMMER:

Well, first off, Tim Walz, nobody wants to hear from him in this country, which is why he's over in Spain. He's looking for anyone who will give him 10 minutes to voice his ridiculous opinions. Tim Walz, he this is a guy who lied about his military record. This is a guy who lied about something as stupid as when he was at Tiananmen Square and got caught on national TV. Look, the the the the by the way, when he was caught, you guys might remember his response was something the effect. Well, you know, I grew up in a small town and sometimes I'm a bit of a knucklehead. Ladies and gentlemen, being a knucklehead is no excuse for being a liar. This guy is a pathological liar. There's nothing that comes out of his mouth that is truth. And in this case, when we talk about what President Trump and our American military are doing, it is amazing to me, considering the size, the scope, the depth of this enemy, the fact that they they have accomplished what they have. I mean, we've lost 13 of our service members, which is a tragedy. One of them is a tragedy. But if you look at what they have accomplished, over 11000 bombings of destroying infrastructure and putting these Iranians who are the chief sponsor of terror around the world and have killed more Americans than any other terrorist group in the world. What we have done is simply phenomenal. And yet you've got to listen to people like this liar, this proven liar and self-admitted liar suggesting that our kids are not being successful over in Iran. It's pathetic. There's a reason pretty soon even Europe will say, hey, this guy isn't worth having in for a cup of coffee. You know, they could have him, though, if you want to move there. I don't think I would protest. I don't think you would either.

HOST:

Congressman Tom Emmer, thank you so much for joining us. I got to go fund me, Paige. Thanks for coming on.
